Letter from Jim Milway '73

President, Alumni Association

Your alumni board is gearing up for a new year.

We have identified two priorities for 2003-04.

First, we need to regain the momentum in the success of the Annual Fund. The Annual Fund is a central means by which alumni can support St Michael's College in its mission of excellence in Catholic higher education. These funds support programs such as Christianity and Culture and Celtic Studies, programs so important to enhancing the distinctiveness of the school. The funds also help fund bursaries for assistance to students. In a variety of other ways the Annual Fund helps provide myriad activities that make the school special. The need is even greater this year as unavoidable costs at the College have been mounting.

In the past four years the Board has set aggressive growth targets for the total amount contributed by our alumni to the Annual Fund. In the years 1999/2000 we achieved solid growth in the Annual Fund as more of our alumni gave, and those who gave, gave more. We reached a record for the Annual Fund when we reached 1.1 million in 2000/2001. Unfortunately, this growth has stalled. In the most recent year the Annual Fund achieved $942 thousand. For us to get back on track we need more of our alumni to be giving, and we need to increase the average gift.

Your alumni board will be working hard to identify new strategies to re-invigorate the Annual Fund. But success will be the results of your generosity as the College asks for your support in the coming year.

Our second priority will be in strengthening Board membership. We have an active group of Board members – but we need more alumni to be involved in helping us with new ideas and energy. We recently welcomed David Montgomery '77 and Steve Williams '94 as new Board members and look forward to welcoming others. Let me know if you're interested in getting involved.

As we look ahead to the new year, all of the Alumni Board join me in thanking Mary Ellen Burns for her five years of dedication and determination as the Director of Alumni Affairs. Mary Ellen embodied the spirit of St Michael's and its alumni. She was always working on the next friend-raising event at the school – from fall homecoming to the Christmas tea to the Lenten reflection and the spring reunion. She reinvigorated the DoubleBlue – making each issue better than the last. Most recently Mary Ellen successfully coordinated the 150th anniversary celebrations for the College. There were many successful events carried out by all the College's constituencies all with Mary Ellen's support. We wish her the best as she leaves St. Michael's.

The View From Elmsley Place

Number One, Elmsley Place, is a marvellous place from which to contemplate the largely positive features of a sunny and warm Toronto high summer. From my office window, one sees that traffic has slowed along St. Joseph Street and the campus has never looked more beautiful with masses of colourful plantings as our grounds staff finds new ways to enhance what is already the most attractive campus at the University of Toronto.

In fact, from this perspective, it is almost hard to remember that Toronto just four months ago was in the midst of the SARS outbreak, the most intensively reported and least well understood epidemic of the last half century. Fortunately, that unpleasant phenomenon is fast receding into the mists of memory, but its effects linger on, in particular the negative impact on the image of Toronto beyond Canada's borders. Even here at the University, where, at the height of the scare you could not find anyone wearing a mask, there were problems. St. Michael's has for the past several summers hosted an English as a second language school for students in their early teens from Asia and Latin America. Last summer enrolment peaked at 267. This year, in the wake of SARS it is under 40. Summer business, which the College has been aggressively promoting for the past ten years as a way of augmenting academic budgets, will this year show a revenue shortfall of almost a quarter of a million dollars. When this is added to a 100 per cent increase in insurance costs post 9/11, and much higher utilities costs (particularly electricity as anyone from Ontario can attest) we face obvious financial challenges.

Elsewhere in this issue you will find a new feature by our Principal, Mark McGowan, that will appear periodically in the DoubleBlue. It contains a synopsis of just some of the exciting academic initiatives now underway at St. Mike's. Although under vastly different circumstances than when I was an undergrad in the early 60's, more students are being taught more courses at the College than at any time in our history. There are more students in our residences, and all, resident and non-resident alike, benefit from the largest and best College library and the most extensive concentration of state-of-the-art technology to be found in the Faculty of Arts and Science at UofT.

To make all this possible we have become more efficient in our operation generally, tried to maximize opportunities for income from ancillary operations, and maintained a salary structure that reflects the dedication and commitment of a staff and faculty fully oriented to the mission of the College. One dramatic statistic illustrates this last point. Government reporting requirements have mandated the public listing of all university personnel with a salary of $100,000 or more. This past year there were 1,200 on this list from the UofT. There was no one on the St. Michael's list. This is something that must and should change with time so that the gap does not hurt our competitiveness, but it also speaks to why your College with only a fraction of the income from endowment enjoyed by both Trinity and Victoria is able to keep pace. On a related note, I am also pleased to report that this last year, when many investment funds across North America shrank by double-digit numbers, our endowment showed a modest increase.

This column, as many others I have written since 1990, attempts to bring you, our most interested graduates and best friends, up to date on some of the recent developments on the St. Michael's campus – in this instance as we enter, after our 150th anniversary, a new period of building the College and its programmes for future generations of St. Michael's students. Your help and encouragement ensure that these efforts will bear fruit, and that the great educational project that is St. Michael's will, as always, go from strength to strength.

Cardinal Gerald Emmett Carter

1912 - 2003

By Michael Higgins, President, St. Jerome's College,
University of Waterloo

Gerald Emmett Cardinal Carter, the recently deceased Chancellor Emeritus of the University of St. Michael's College and Archbishop Emeritus of Toronto, was every inch the educator. He relished his association with St. Mike's, not because it was part of his job as Archbishop, but because he treasured education, attached high importance to the role of the teacher (no matter the level—primary, secondary, or tertiary), and recognized the deeply humanizing and sanctifying significance of education in the life of the mature Catholic and democratic citizen.

For 20 years Cardinal Carter was the Chancellor of St. Michael's, faithfully presiding at Baccalaureate Masses and University Convocations, always using his good offices to further the mission of St. Michael's in Catholic higher education. "He was always very comfortable in the university environment," remarks President Richard Alway. "Ideas and the life of the intellect were important to him, and he integrated them into his personal faith in a way most of us would like to emulate, though few manage to approach". St. Michael's financial well-being was of particular concern to him and he often volunteered to introduce the College to potential donors and to act as host at lunch and dinner meetings to present the case for St. Michael's. He was also generous with his own personal finances. In 1992, when the College financial picture was particularly bleak, he called President Alway to his office in the Chancery and presented him with a cheque for $125,000, which he said represented the savings that he had built up from his salary as a priest and bishop during his long career. He established a close relationship with President Alway, who met with him almost every month to brief him on developments on campus. The President was also an honorary pallbearer at the Cardinal's funeral on April 10th. St. Michael's gave public expression to its admiration and appreciation of Cardinal Carter when it conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity honoris causa when he retired as Chancellor in 1998.

Emmett Carter was destined quite early in his life as a priest to see to matters educational. Within just a few months of his ordination in 1937 he was assigned by his Bishop to assume duties as the new Ecclesiastical Inspector of English Schools in Montreal. He was wholly unprepared. And he knew it. But he was not to be daunted. He took on his new responsibilities with panache, became the Catholic Chaplain at McGill University, earned a doctorate in education at the University of Montreal (his dissertation, "The Psychological Import of Religious Education", received a good deal of critical attention because of its rather daring fusion of psychology and religion), became the first president and a charter member of the Thomas More Institute for Adult Education, founded St. Joseph's Teachers' College, became the first rector of St. Lawrence College in Ste. Foy, and published widely on pedagogy, catechetics, religious education, educational psychology, and educational history, including three major works on these subjects: CATHOLIC PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF QUEBEC (1957), PSYCHOLOGY AND THE CROSS (a 1959 reworked version of his dissertation that was considered so controversial by his publisher—Macmillan of Canada—that he was informed that "there is little doubt that it could be sold but it would surely have a rough time in the hands of Catholic educators in America") and THE MODERN CHALLENGE TO RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

(1961). In time, the young cleric who had thrust on him in the summer of 1937 the demanding role of Ecclesiastical Inspector of Schools would so rise to the task that by the time he was named Auxiliary Bishop of London, Ontario in 1962 he had become arguably the foremost Catholic educator in the country.

And that would not change after he was ordained to the episcopate. He was personally instrumental in helping set the stage for the decision of the Government of Ontario in 1984 to extend full public funding from elementary to the conclusion of secondary education in Catholic schools and exercised deep personal interest in the fortunes and direction of such post-secondary institutions as King's College, Brescia College (both at the University of Western Ontario) and Assumption University of Windsor while he was in London and finally with St. Michael's and the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies in Toronto.

Education was in Carter's blood. St. Mike's embodies in its undergraduate, post graduate (specifically in theology), and continuing education initiatives precisely those vital areas of formation that he saw as part of the Catholic education continuum that nurtures the heart, the mind, and the soul from cradle-to-grave.

Emmett Carter's own philosophy of education is best summed up in his favourite and oft-repeated Augustinian quotation: "In necessaris unitas, in dubiis libertas, in omnibus caritas" ("In the fundamental issues, unity; in matters of opinion, freedom; in all things, charity.") A worthy credo by SMC's former Chancellor, whose episcopal motto—Pax et Lux ("Peace and Light")—defines nicely the ideal goal of all education.

Cardinal Gerald Emmett Carter

The Canadian Church, the Archdiocese of Toronto, and the University of St. Michael's College were blessed in many ways by the presence and ministry of Cardinal Gerald Emmett Carter.

[Michael W. Higgins taught for the Faculty of Theology and in the Christianity and Culture Programme in the late 70s and early 80s and is married to St. Mike's gold medalist Krystyna Peterson '72. He is the author of the official entry on Cardinal Carter for the New Catholic Encyclopedia, Carter's obituarist for The Tablet of London, England, and co-author of the 1990 biography of the Cardinal, My Father's Business (Macmillan).]

One Year Later

By Professor Mark McGowan

Last July (2002), as I approached my new duties as College Principal, I was filled with the sense of "possibility" as St. Michael's celebrated its first 150 years. Many challenges were still peeking over the horizon and drawing closer in my agenda book – World Youth Day, the first "dry" orientation since the 1960s, the new "coed floor" at the Delta-Chelsea Hotel that housed some SMC students, a new Provost at the University of Toronto, the second Furlong lecture, "Understanding Islam", and the much anticipated preparations for the "double cohort". As I quickly learned, there would be plenty of unanticipated challenges awaiting me and my team, some of them rewarding, others not so pleasant.

When I began my term, I had three main goals: to enhance the lines of communication between the partners that form the St. Michael's campus community; to expand our curriculum and create opportunities for greater academic energy on our campus, with the hope of spilling over into the wider community; to build community life at St. Michael's as we head towards our bicentennial.

These goals have been unfolding gradually. To enhance the communication side I have established a whole host of new standing committees, advisory committees and less formal working groups. The inspiration for these developments is not my love of committees, but a sense that we needed new and better ways of connecting the various groups and centres of concern on campus. In this process I have learned the importance of being visible as Principal while all the while being a discerning listener; a college community can only be strengthened and nourished if all of its members know that they are partners in a common enterprise.

With the numbers of the "double cohort" in mind, and in full knowledge that our new SMC students have a plethora of interests and come from diverse backgrounds, our curriculum must be flexible, innovative and imaginative. Our traditional programs, Celtic Studies, Mediaeval Studies, and Christianity and Culture, remain the backbone of our academic life. This year we undertook a review of Mediaeval Studies and have plans for an exciting renovation for this famous St. Michael's program. In the autumn we will begin our search for a new faculty member in Christianity and Culture, and our Celtic Studies program is attracting an impressive array of visiting professors and guest lecturers (including former Irish President Garret Fitzgerald this autumn).

In March, we announced the formal approval of our new interdisciplinary minor program in Book and Media Studies, under whose umbrella we shall link some of the most exciting minds and valuable teaching resources in the University of Toronto. This is the first undergraduate program of its kind in North America. We are very excited about the way in which it will marshal the vast print and media resources of the University and the wider community and place them at the disposal of our students.

In January, we began a process that aims to create a minor program in Mediterranean Studies, which is also bringing together various interested parties from both the College and several faculties at the UofT. This is an exciting moment as we contemplate an interdisciplinary program that will explore the lands and peoples of the entire Mediterranean area (with which an increasing number of St. Michael's students can claim ethnic affiliation). The Program will also assist us in our plan to create an ongoing forum at St. Michael's for the continuing dialogue between the three great religious traditions of Abraham: Christianity, Islam, and Judaism. In the spring of 2004, our third Furlong Lecture will bring all three groups together to discuss "the Creation," and the response of each of these traditions to the challenge of nurturing "the earth."

Plans are being laid for a new look to Brennan Hall in order to enhance student life at St. Michael's; many can remember the times when the Coop was full and Brennan was a hive of undergraduate activity. My plan, in co-operation with the students, USMC, and the Faculty of Arts, is to renovate Brennan and make it the "heart of St. Michael's"—including student club space, a coffee bar, campus ministry, The Mike, and the Registrar's office. Alumni Hall would be reconverted into much needed office and classroom space to accommodate the pressing needs of the double cohort. The new Brennan would energize the campus and help us build community.

As I enter year two of my mandate, I recognize that the three virtues are omnipresent in the College's mission: Faith, in our endeavour to offer a holistic education, as expressed in our mission statement; Charity, to be a presence in the greater community; Hope, in the great things that our community can build and celebrate. I thank the Alumni for their ongoing support and look forward to working with you more closely as we enter the next era of SMC's history.

Planned Giving Feasibility Study

By Brian O'Malley, Executive Director, Alumni Affairs and Development

Last spring, St. Michael's College commissioned Legacy Leaders Inc. to conduct a planned giving feasibility study. The purpose of the study was to determine the level of interest among our alumni/ae and friends in providing support to the College through a bequest, trust or other form of planned giving. The results will provide information necessary for a decision regarding a long-term project to encourage planned giving.

The initial survey took place in late March when 500 College graduates and friends received the letter on this page from Mr. Frank Buckley, SMC '42, explaining why he has named St. Michael's College as a beneficiary in his will. He also encouraged alumni/ae to join him by making a planned giving commitment which will secure the tradition for future students.

A team of specially trained representatives of Legacy Leaders followed up Mr. Buckley's letter with a phone call to discuss the idea of a planned giving commitment. Approximately 350 of our graduates were reached by phone. Of that number, 39 graduates or 11% declared that they have named St. Michael's College as a beneficiary in their will or were giving consideration to remembering the College.

We have been informed by Legacy Leaders that an 11% confirmation rate demonstrates a strong level of support for the College among our constituency. It was made clear from the survey that the long-term financial stability of St. Michael's College is regarded as important by our alumni/ae and friends.

Until recent years, the future of St. Michael's College has been secured by the donated services of Basilian priests and sisters of Loretto and St. Joseph. They were considered to be our "living endowment". As vocations to the religious life declined dramatically, the College recognized that its future viability must be secured by an endowment to generate income, which will replace the gift of donated time and service from priests and religious.

Since 1990, St. Michael's College has actively worked to build an endowment. Through generous gifts from the Basilian Fathers, Sisters of Loretto and St. Joseph, bequests, donations, and careful management, the endowment has grown from $7,100,000 to $35,400,000 in 2003. To replace the "living endowment" with a fund which will provide sufficient income to offer services, scholarships and bursaries to our students which are comparable to those offered by the other federated colleges, Trinity and Victoria, we must build an endowment well in excess of $100,000,000.

The survival and future of St. Michael's College at the University of Toronto will very much depend on our ability to continue to build the endowment. The results of the survey by Legacy Leaders make us hopeful that we will be able to achieve this goal through alumni/ae support sufficient to sustain the future viability of St. Michael's College.

March 10, 2003

Dear Graduate,

I am writing to you as an alumnus and supporter of the University of St. Michael's College. My education, which included the guiding influence of the Basilian Fathers and the Sisters of Loretto and St. Joseph, provided me with a legacy that is with me every day of my life. I am so grateful for the excellent experience I had at St. Mike's, that I have left a donation to the College in my will.

In the next few days, a representative will be calling to invite you to consider making a similar gift. I hope that you will consider the proposed options carefully. This request is not just an opportunity to give, it is the chance to support Catholic education for generations to come. If you have any questions about this initiative, please contact Brian O'Malley, Executive Director, Alumni Affairs and Development, at 416-926-7261 or brian.omalley@utoronto.ca.

For over 150 years, St. Mike's has provided an exceptional academic and moral approach to education. I hope you will join me in securing the tradition for future students.

Sincerely

Frank Buckley

St. Michael's Honors Bishop Nicola De Angelis and Dr. Janet Somerville

At the beginning of the 12 June '03 Baccalaureate Mass, in the presence of the '03 graduates and their parents, spouses and other relatives and friends, two distinguished graduates of St. Michael's were invested as Honorary Fellows of the University of St. Michael's College by the Most Reverend John Boissonneau '70, Pro-Chancellor of the University.

Dr. Janet Somerville received her BA degree in 1959 and a Master of Theology degree in 1965. She then joined the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation as the co-ordinating producer of Ideas, the award-winning series on CBC radio. After five years, she resigned from the CBC, turning her attention to exploring, with various Canadian Christian Church networks, the inter-relationship between biblical faith and social and economic justice. Through the '70s and '80s, she worked informally in various Church circles as a religious educator, sometimes in conference settings, often through Bible study, but most often as a contributor to Church connected publications. Her work often took her abroad; in 1987 she was appointed a lay perita on the Canadian bishops' delegation to the Vatican Synod on the laity. For a number of years in the '90s, Janet was an important member of the staff of the independent bi-weekly newspaper The Catholic New Times. She served as Associate Editor of the paper, which won national and international awards in several categories of religious journalism. In 1997, Janet became the first Roman Catholic and the first woman to be appointed to a five-year term as General Secretary of the Canadian Council of Churches. The citation presenting Janet for the Honorary Fellowship concluded with these words, "Janet's life and ministry enfleshes her belief 'that God has high hopes for the world and it is intrinsic to being a Christian to take your life in the world seriously and try to bring about God's hopes.' (Compass volume 14 #1)"

Bishop Nicola De Angelis was born in Italy and came to Canada in 1967. A member of the Congregation of the Sons of the Immaculate Conception, he was ordained in Toronto in 1970 and served in several pastoral and administrative capacities. In 1980 he received the degree of Doctor of Ministry from St. Michael's. His religious community recalled him to Rome to serve as Treasurer General, and in 1986 he was elected their Superior General. In 1992 Pope John Paul II appointed him Auxiliary Bishop of Toronto, where he served as Auxiliary Bishop of the Central Pastoral Region of the Archdiocese, and Episcopal Vicar for the Ethnic Apostolate, for the Pastoral Mission Fund, and for all Catholic Faculties of Theology in Universities. He was Episcopal Liaison with the Toronto District School Board and with Catholic Lay Movements, Groups and Associations, and Spiritual Advisor to the Catholic Woman's League in Ontario. Bishop De Angelis's episcopal ministry to Toronto was marked by warmth, cordiality, insight, sensitivity, spiritual depth, and good humour. The Bishop has also been a member of the Pontifical Congregation for the Institutes of Consecrated Life and Apostolic Societies and a member of the Pontifical Councils for Interreligious Dialogue and for Migrants and Itinerant People. On 28 December '02, Bishop De Angelis was appointed Bishop and Ordinary of the Diocese of Peterborough, ON.

St. Michael's is proud to honour Bishop De Angelis and Janet Somerville, and is honoured by its association with them. We pray that God will continue to bless them in their respective ministries.

Thank You Mary Ellen Burns '70

The news of Mary Ellen Burns's decision to step down from her position as Director of Alumni Affairs for St. Michael's was a cause of sadness. That sadness was proof of, and underlined, the general respect, appreciation and affection the alumni, students, administration, faculty, and staff of St. Michael's had developed for her as they worked with her and benefited by her devotion and talents during her tenure as Director. Her dedication to the purpose and mission of St. Michael's, and her determination to maintain and enhance its traditions marked her engagement in every level of College life with which she came in contact.

Mary Ellen Burns '70

Mary Ellen was able to provide a leadership that attracted people to be involved and take responsibility for the work of the St. Michael's Alumni Association. Working with the Board Executive, she helped to strengthen the committee structure of the Association, drew more people into active participation in its functions, and developed important new initiatives and events. The present format of DoubleBlue is the result of her creativity and has justly received many compliments. Her concern for and work with the students was exemplary. Giving spirit to her many gifts and her love for St. Michael's was a strong desire, influenced and supported no doubt by her graduate theological studies at Regis College, to minister, in the St. Michael's tradition, to the people with whom and for whom she worked. Her sense of duty, her imaginative and inviting leadership, her concern for and reaching out to individual alumni, her deep appreciation of their contributions to the College, and her unquestioned devotion to St. Michael's were among the many characteristics that are gratefully remembered.

THANK YOU MARY ELLEN BURNS!

Thoughts on Convocation

By Elizabeth Bozek '03

A friend of mine who chose not to attend the convocation ceremony because his parents could not make it told me afterwards that he did not see any reason to attend—"after all, isn't the ceremony really just a photo-op for the parents?" Although I thought that I agreed, I realized after some thought that there was a bit more to Convocation than just the many, many pictures. The morning Mass at St. Basil's Church reminded us of the Catholic tradition of the College, and the pride and motivation this instilled carried over into the afternoon ceremony at Convocation Hall. We were inspired not only by the speeches heard that day, but by each other as well. We were also faced with the reality that we are leaving what has become a home; for many of us, we weren't just saying good-bye to UofT, but to St. Mike's as well. Although most of our classes were held across campus, many of us lived (or just seemed to live) at SMC, and it was important to gather together once again and celebrate our community. Convocation was thus a chance to say good-bye to some friends, and to rekindle other friendships that might have waned over the years. It was a chance to reminisce about our four (or three, or five, or... whatever) years of university, and to look forward to the future with high expectations—and what better way to close this chapter of our lives than with those that made these years memorable!

Barry McGee Tree

For several of those returning to campus for the Spring Reunion there was an added event of great importance and charged with grand memories. Many of the classmates and other friends of the late Barry McGee '68 gathered at 11:00 A.M. the Saturday morning of Reunion Weekend to take part in the blessing and dedication of a flowering crabapple tree (one of Barry's favourite trees) recently planted in his memory on the lawn bordering the south (St. Joseph Street) side of Belisle House. Bill Evans '68, Barry's longtime friend, schoolmate and fellow Rochesterian, had initiated this memorial project that resulted in funding for the tree and an appropriate memorial plaque.

Friends and classmates from the United States and Canada joined Barry's wife, Patricia Kelly McGee '68 and one of their daughters, Megan, for the brief ceremony. Bill Evans and Pat spoke briefly; St. Michael's President Richard Alway, noting that "Barry's tree" was planted right outside his office window, expressed gratitude for the memorial gift; Fr. Bob Madden, CSB offered a prayer of blessing and dedication. There followed a simple reception with light refreshments in the offices of the President, and Alumni Affairs and Development, now housed in Belisle House. Many memories were shared, and all recognized the aptness of a tree as a memorial to one who had brought life to the campus for so many years and in so many ways.

The St. Michael's campus is never more beautiful than in the late spring. On the weekend of May 30, the college welcomed returning alumni from the class of 1958 for our 45th reunion. You may think this is premature, but I'm asking you and everyone in SMC 5T8 to mark the calendar for the weekend of 30 May 2008. No one who comes back to St. Michael's leaves unmoved.

Reflections of '68 Triggered by the '03 Spring Reunion

by Ed Tonello '68

There were eleven of us in September 1965 when we began our freshman year at St. Michael's College. We were from Toronto, graduates from the Catholic high schools, De La Salle and St. Michael's College School.

We did not originate as a group but gravitated together. There was nothing particularly auspicious about any of us. We enrolled in the three-year General Arts program, eschewing the four-year Honour Course program. We avoided demanding subjects, like math and science. That is not to suggest that we lacked commitment to our academic obligations – our studies remained our focus.

We did not excel in extra-circular activity. For example, in hockey some of us played intramural in the bottom echelon - no try-outs, just show up – so that we could stick together. We occasionally drank beer to excess, usually across the street at the BayBloor (draft $0.15 per glass), while playing shuffle board or that mother of all video games, "pong." Having emerged from all-male high schools (and grade schools) none of us was especially slick with the girls.

One thing brought us together more than anything else – playing cards. SMC's renovated Brennan Hall lounge opened in 1967 and offered an anvil upon which we would forge some of our strongest memories – an unprecedented, exclusively-dedicated card-playing room! In our third and final year an unspoken ritual evolved. Once a week after completion of the first class of the day, sometimes several of us would drift into the room with the expressed purpose of just wanting to "see what's going on." Soon the beachhead was enlarged as others from the group ambled in from their classes, thereby achieving a "critical mass" with the inevitable result that a card game would break out. Guilt was assuaged by everyone avowing that the game would be only for "a hand or two."

Within minutes of the first game getting under way, all pretence, along with books, was cast aside. Off came the jackets, spectators pulled up chairs to claim turf, sleeves were rolled up, and hands gleefully slapped together, money put on the table, imminent classes went unmentioned. Ten to twelve hour sessions, with washroom breaks only, became de rigueur. Money was a mere prop: our penuriousness (and equal card-playing skill!) ensured that over time losses and wins washed.

Through the windows in the south wall of the card room we could see the trees and the changing rhythm of the seasons along the walkway from the campus quad to St Basil's church and Clover Hill, where some of our classes convened (e.g. Fr. Belyea's unforgettable Religion 300). The Fr. John Kelly Library was about to open. There were only two tall buildings in the area – the Sutton Place Hotel and an apartment building on St. Mary's Street. Yorkville, then in its coffee house-folk singing heyday, inexplicably did not hold attraction for us.

The year 1968 was epochal, not unlike 1848. Although somewhat cocooned at the card tables in Brennan Hall, we understood quite well that the world outside was swirling with profound change: Bob Dylan's "The Times They Are A Changin'" replacing the Temptations' "My Girl", Haight-Ashbury displacing Main Street, the assassinations of Martin Luther King and Bobby Kennedy, the student riots in Paris, the violent suppression of the freedom revolt in Prague, the public/police riots in the Chicago streets during the Democratic National Convention, Jackie Kennedy's marriage to Aristotle Onassis, increased opposition to the Vietnam war and its toll in human life, Richard Nixon elected President, the first orbit of the moon, marijuana is becoming a household word, flower power enters the lexicon, women's rights, civil rights, marches, protests, colour TV, Laugh-In—all this was happening as we played cards; things would never be the same again.

An observer, casual or informed, would be justified in believing that we appeared to be a collection of listless, shallow individuals. But what was not so apparent was our bonding; life's last fling at boyhood camaraderie – something that does not leave the consciousness even now, 35 years after the last hand was played.

Forever thanks, alma mater.

PS. Four went on to become lawyers, one a teacher, the others mostly MBAs & CAs. The May 30/03 Friday night All Alumni Reception was our 1st Reunion together, and we remembered.

Faculty Profile: Fr. Martin Dimnik, CSB '65

Senior Fellow and Former
Praeses of the Pontifical
Institute of Mediaeval Studies

"Martin Dimnik has established himself as the premier authority in the world on medieval Chernigov....[he] has reshaped the political map of pre-Mongol Russia.... [His] research achievements are extraordinary."

"...Professor Dimnik is one of only a few real authorities in the USSR or the West on chronicles as historical sources for pre-Mongol Rus'."

"Now that [Oxford Professor] John Fennell has left the field of Russian studies, Dimnik is becoming the recognized successor to his mantle....[and] one of the most accomplished historians now teaching in North America."

These are but a few assessments by fellow historians of the academic work of Fr. Martin Dimnik, CSB, Senior Fellow and former Praeses of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies (PIMS).

On 1 July '03 Cambridge University Press published The Dynasty of Chernigov 1146-1246, the third and final volume of a research project which developed out of Fr. Dimnik's doctoral studies at Oxford University. His productive research and publishing activities combine with his involvement in teaching, administration, and priestly ministry to make him a valued and respected member of the University of St. Michael's College community.

Martin Dimnik was born in 1941 in Ljubljana, Slovenia, Yugoslavia. In 1943, after the death of his father in the war, he, his mother, and other members of his family fled to Austria; in 1949 he and some of the family emigrated to Western Canada. He graduated with the Student of the Year Award from the Basilian high school in Lethbridge, Alberta, in 1960 and in August of that year entered the Basilian novitiate in Richmond Hill, ON. In 1961, after professing religious vows, he was appointed to residence in St. Basil's Seminary, Toronto for his undergraduate education. Registered at St. Michael's College, he pursued Honours Slavic Studies at the University of Toronto, graduating in 1965. After teaching for two years at St. Michael's College School, Toronto, he returned to St. Basil's Seminary for his theological studies. During his theology studies he also did graduate work in the UofT's Department of Russian Languages and Literature, receiving a Master of Arts degree in 1970. As a Deacon he lived at St. Michael's College, where he taught a course on Russian Civilization in the Freshman (Western) Course and completed his theological preparation for ordination. Ordained a priest in the Basilian parish in Lethbridge in June of 1971, he began his doctoral studies in Oxford University that autumn. He received his D. Phil from Oxford in 1976 and, with his appointment to PIMS that same year, began an outstanding multifaceted career that continues to this day.

Fr. Dimnik's fields of specialization are the history of Kievan Rus' (Ninth to Thirteenth Centuries), and the history of the Slavs in the Balkans in the middle ages. As Senior Fellow of PIMS, Full Professor in the UofT's Centre for Medieval Studies, Associate of the UofT's Centre for Russian and East European Studies, and Adjunct Professor of the Faculty of Theology of St. Michael's in the Toronto School of Theology, he has taught courses on Kievan Rus', the Orthodox Church, the Slavs, Medieval Institutions and Legal Traditions, Saints Cyril and Methodius, and early Slavic Christianity in the Balkans. Assessors of his research have pointed out the contribution he has made to historical studies in his fields of specialization by his careful textual analysis of early chronicles, and by his use of archaeological findings and numismatics (the history of coins, coinage, medals, and related materials). He has been involved in several archeological excavations, and is co-organizer of the on-going Ukrainian-Canadian Archaeological Expedition in the Baturyn and Chernihiv regions of Ukraine which is jointly administered by the Shevchenko State Pedagogical University of Chernihiv, Ukraine, and PIMS. In 1996 he received a grant (one of several he has received for his research) from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada (SSHRC) to participate in an archaeological expedition to the Crimea organized by the Archaeological Institute of the Ukrainian Academie of Sciences. In 1995, 1998, and 2001 he served on the Advisory Boards of the three International Numismatic Congresses held in Croatia.

Along with his three-volume history referred to above, twenty-nine entries in The Modern Encyclopedia of Russian and Soviet History, and several book reviews, Fr. Dimnik has had articles published or has made presentations to conferences in Canada, Germany, Ukraine, Croatia, England, Belgium, Serbia, and the United States. Currently in the press are chapters in The New Cambridge Medieval History and in The Cambridge History of Russia, thirty-four entries in The Encyclopedia of Russian History (Macmillan Reference USA, New York), and articles to appear in publications in Serbia, Ukraine, and Canada. No one can accuse him of resting on his laurels! His administrative experience includes the Presidency (1990-96) and Academic Secretary (1987-90) of PIMS, and current membership on the local council of the Basilian Fathers of St. Michael's. He also serves on various academic boards and committees and is an Appraiser for the granting bodies SSHRC and The National Endowment for the Humanities as well as for several academic journals.

Fr. Martin Dimnik, CSB '65 enjoys Nature's splendour

As a Basilian priest Fr. Dimnik is often involved in parish ministry on weekends and in various ministerial activities in the local Basilian community, in the broader civic community, and on campus. One should add that, certainly in his earlier days, he was an accomplished athlete and was known to play a mean game of tennis! He now enjoys lengthy walks in the country as well as in the city.

The University of St. Michael's College community rejoices in the accomplishments of Fr. Martin Dimnik and is grateful for the example he gives of dedication to its spiritual and intellectual purpose and values.

Building Community

By Marilyn Elphick, Chaplain

The role of the pastoral team at St. Michael's College is to provide members of the university community with opportunities to grow in the intellectual, spiritual and practical dimensions of their faith. In other words, we strive to furnish the tools for the members of our community to build on, develop and integrate their baptismal calling to discipleship in the university, the workplace, the family, and the Church.

Liturgical celebrations form the bedrock of our ministry, and we offer several opportunities to the community throughout the academic year to participate in our Eucharistic Celebrations. The University Mass, our weekly Sunday Eucharistic celebration, takes place at 4:30 P.M. in St. Basil's Church during the academic year. This Mass gives the students an opportunity to learn and to serve the worshipping community in various liturgical roles. Each year, a Twilight Liturgical Workshop takes place, and we are fortunate in being able to utilize the rich resources of the Faculty of Theology to assist us with the training of liturgical ministers. The evening concludes with a Eucharistic Celebration in which the students can use their newly acquired skills.

Marilyn Elphick,
Chaplain

Serving the community through a ministry of presence, the pastoral team endeavours to provide an open door and a safe, confidential environment to explore issues of spirituality through ongoing formation and direction. Faith discussion, bible study, and scriptural reflection groups gather in informal settings. In addition to the annual autumnal retreat on Strawberry Island, there are several retreat evenings scheduled throughout the school year.

The USMC Chaplaincy Centre for Social Justice works toward the "preferential option for the poor" through its collaboration with agencies such as Society of Sharing, Sisters of the Good Shepherd Sharing Fair, Fontbonne Ministries, The Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace (CCODP), the Canadian Catholic Students' Association (CCSA), and the International Movement for Catholic Students (IMCS). This fall, the Justice Centre, in collaboration with the Dominican Family, is hosting a public lecture by Gustavo Gutierrez on 8 October at 7:30 P.M. in St. Basil's Church. The St. Michael's students staff and lead the Out of the Cold outreach project. This program, which operates one day a week during the winter months, provides a much-needed place of warmth, refuge, and a warm meal for the homeless people in downtown Toronto.

Fr Terry Kersch, CSB,
Chaplain

Future projects include planning for the 2005 World Youth Day in Cologne, Germany and participation in the formation of a National Catholic Student Association. At this time, we would like to express our deep gratitude for all your support and prayers; they enable us to carry out our mission of building a strong faith community and bringing the Gospel through liturgical worship, prayer, education, and social action to the university and the world.

Campus Notes

● Kudos to Fr. Michael A. Fahey, S.J., former Dean of the St. Michael's Faculty of Theology. Fr. Fahey is the recipient of the distinguished John Courtney Murray Award, the highest award granted by the Catholic Theological Society of America (CTSA). This honor is given annually to an individual who has demonstrated excellence in theology. After entering the Society of Jesus in 1951, Fr. Fahey studied at Boston College, the University of Louvain in Belgium, Fordham University, New York City, Carinthia, Austria, and completed his graduate education with a doctorate in theology from the University of Tübingen, Germany, where he studied under Fr. Hans Küng and Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger. Fr. Fahey taught theology at the Weston Jesuit School of Theology in Cambridge, MA and in the Department of Theological Studies in Concordia University, Montreal. In 1986 he came to St. Michael's, where he served two terms as Dean of the Faculty of Theology. He returned to the United States as the Emmett Doerr Distinguished Professor of Theology at Marquette University in Milwaukee, where he continued his extensive publishing and his work as Editor-in-Chief of the prestigious journal, Theological Studies, as well as serving on the boards and committees of several academic, theological, and ecumenical institutions and agencies, often in an executive position. His research interests have focused in particular on theological issues that have separated the Christian churches, especially the Christian East and West. Fr. Fahey has been described as a theologian "with few peers in the realm of Catholic thinking," and as "the consummate theologian, a meticulous scholar, who is rigorous in research, elegant in writing...." The Alumni Association is happy and proud to join the St. Michael's Faculty of Theology in offering heartiest congratulations to Fr. Michael A. Fahey, S.J. on this well-deserved award.

● The importance of electronic technology in teaching is increasingly evident on the St. Michael's campus. The St. Michael's theatre in Alumni Hall, whose electrical systems were in need of renovation, has been transformed to better serve as a lecture hall for the larger classes. It can still serve as a locus for dramatic presentations. With financial assistance from the UofT's Faculty of Arts and Science, adjustments have been made to the proscenium arch, the stage area, and to the aisle-seating configuration. A new sound system has been put in place, the general lighting of the auditorium has been improved, and a new control console has been installed which makes possible the use of VCR/DVD equipment with Internet and World-Wide Web connections, a document camera that projects images from a variety of sources, and a data projector. This new lecture facility, which seats 284, is unique on campus, and this year is in academic class use five days and four evenings each week.

In addition to the new lecture hall, the new Odette Learning Centre and the Roy and Ann Foss Research Common in the John M. Kelly Library are recent and important additions to College's continuing efforts to meet the changing academic needs of students. The Odette Learning Centre contains an "electronic classroom" which provides thirty-eight Internet and World Wide Web connected stations for computer-assisted instruction. The Roy and Ann Foss Research Common has replaced the library's file-card catalogue system with online computer access to library holdings across the UofT campus. It also is the site of over fifty-eight student-accessible computer workstations.

● At the opening of a special exhibition of sixty-two rare early printed liturgical books, Fr. James McConica, CSB, Praeses of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, announced that the Institute Library's Rare Book Room had been designated as The Joseph Pope Rare Book Room in recognition of Joseph Pope's many donations of rare books to the Institute. The special exhibition ran until 30 June in order to make it accessible to members of the Renaissance Society of America and of the Rare Book Librarians of the American Library Association, both of which associations met in Toronto this past spring.

Sponsored by the St. Thomas More/Newman Alumni Association, the Symposium, whose planning spanned almost the whole preceding year, was the brainchild of Dr. John Thompson, former President of St. Thomas More College, and Margaret Sanche, the College's archivist/historian. It was held in the year 2003 to commemorate the 40th anniversary of the death of Fr. Carr and his unique and lasting contribution to the founding and life of St. Thomas More College.

The following presented papers: Dr. John Thompson; Margaret Sanche; Dr. Kenneth Schmitz, Professor Emeritus, University of Toronto; Mary Jo Leddy, a great-niece of Fr. Carr; Fr. James Hanrahan, CSB; Fr. George Smith, CSB; Mr. Bernard Daly; Fr. P. Wallace Platt, CSB; and Sister Teresita Kambeitz, OSU.

Presentations covered several topics: Fr. Carr's family and his early life; Fr. Carr the student, scholar, priest, administrator, teacher, philosopher, story-teller; his role in establishing the system of Catholic colleges in federation with provincial universities; his vision of the Church in the modern world; his ministry as spiritual director and retreat master.

Needless to say, Kathy and Marty's parents, Henry '70 and Christine Dent van Driel '69 are overjoyed at both "blessed events."

Fr. Mark Wendling '95, a professed member of the Society of Our Lady of the Most Holy Trinity, was ordained by Pope John Paul II in Rome 11 May '03. After graduation from SMC/UofT, Mark taught for two years as a volunteer in Benque Viejo in Belize, a coastal country in Central America, bordered by Mexico and Guatemala. After completing his novitiate year in Belen, NM and one year of philosophical studies in Corpus Christi, TX, he was appointed to St. Thomas Aquinas University (the Angelicum) in Rome, Italy for his final four years of theological studies. Fr. Wendling will be working with young candidates for his religious community and also carrying on missionary activity in Central America. Mark's mother, Sharon Dennis Wendling '66 is an SMC graduate, and his father, Paul Wendling (Engineering '61), lived in residence at St. Michael's.

The participants learned of the brilliant young man, oldest in a family of eight, whose initial academic training took place in a public collegiate in Oshawa, Ontario in the late Nineteenth Century. A Sister of St. Joseph was instrumental in his coming to St. Michael's College, where he studied Classics and again excelled academically. While at St. Michael's, he was attracted to the Basilian Fathers and subsequently became a member. The decision led eventually to two most important developments in post-secondary Catholic education in Canada, the establishment of the system of Catholic colleges federated with provincial universities, and the founding at St. Michael's in Toronto of a centre for the interdisciplinary study of the Middle Ages, which developed into the world renowned Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies. Some consider the establishment of the Institute as Fr. Carr's crowning achievement.

This participant walked away with two statements of Fr. Carr which seem to sum up his unique philosophy: "The most important work we have to do is to talk to students. In practice, it is impossible to do too much of it .... Here is where real education takes place." The second describes his influence on federation and his relationship to administrators in provincial universities, "Insist on your rights, and you will get what you deserve – nothing. But act as a friend and be a friend among friends and the most cumbersome legal machinery will roll smoothly on."

The Father Henry Carr Symposium honoured a remarkable man who was at once a priest, administrator, scholar, philosopher, and friend; in effect, a person of extraordinary vision who left a lasting mark on the spiritual and intellectual life of Canada

The Honourable Hilary M. Weston, D.S.Litt. (honoris causa) '97 was appointed a Member of the Order of Canada 5 August '03. ## New Degree Program Introduced by the Faculty of Theology in Collaboration with Continuing Education

By Dr. Mimi Marrocco, Director, Continuing Education

The summer of 2003 saw the inauguration of the new Master of Arts Program in Catholic Leadership at St. Michael's with the offering of its first course: Leadership Issues in Catholic Education. Dr. Brian O'Sullivan (SMC 7T9), seconded to the University of Toronto's Faculty of Education (OISE/UT) from the York Catholic District School Board, where he had served as Principal of Brother Andre High School, designed and taught this first course to 14 enthusiastic graduate students, many of whom already hold positions as teachers or chaplaincy team members in Ontario Catholic schools. Brian will return to St. Michael's as a sessional instructor for the second course in the program, to be offered this fall. This course, Globalization and Catholic Educational Leadership, will be available as part of the new Master's program not only in a traditional on campus format, but also as a web based "distance" course. This new professional program is designed to enable leaders in Catholic settings such as schools, hospitals and social service agencies to gain fluency in articulating the distinctiveness of publicly funded Catholic institutions. The program has been designed to assist candidates to gain historical perspective, to integrate administrative and managerial practices with the social teachings of the Catholic Church, to appreciate the implications of law and Canon law and to grow in moral, theological and scriptural understandings.

The Master of Arts degree in Catholic Leadership is just one of a number of new initiatives that have emerged under the aegis of the recently established Institute for Catholic Leadership. Itself a collaborative undertaking between Theology and Continuing Education, the Institute owes its existence to the funding efforts achieved by the office of Alumni and Development. Seed money from two foundations has enabled the Institute to engage the services of sessional faculty (including Dr. O'Sullivan) and to hire courseware specialists to help with internet design and delivery.

In addition to these new ventures, the summer of 2003 saw us continuing to host previously introduced programs, including a popular week long learning vacation at St. Michael's (Classical Pursuits, 20-25 July ) and the Certificate Program in Corporate Social Responsibility (9-11 June). Our program calendar for 2003-2004 has just been printed and includes opportunities to discuss everything from "holiness" to "household words", "Ancient Mesopotamia" to "Thomas Merton", science, literature, philosophy, theology, ethics, music and art. The calendar is mailed each year – mostly by request – to a growing number (well over 7,000, I'm told) of lifelong learners. DoubleBlue readers not currently on the Continuing Education mailing list are cordially invited to contact us. In the meantime, visit us online at www.utoronto.ca/stmikes. We'd love to hear from you in 2003.
